

[2.10] Camillan Roman 400 BC – 275 BC

Climat :	Chaud	Terrains obligatoires :	(aucun)
Agressivité :	1	Terrains facultatifs :	WW, Rv, H(S), H(G), O, V, RGo, M, Rd, BUA
Zone topographique :	Arable

Avertissements

Les troupes irrégulières sont en rouge, les troupes obligatoires en gras, les mots non traduits ou intraduisibles en italique.

Liste principale

Désignation	Type	Coût	200 pts	250 pts	300 pts	400 pts
Roman C-in-C	Reg Cv (O)	28	1
Roman ally-general	Reg Cv (O)	18	0-1
Roman sub-general	Reg Cv (O)	28	0-2
Roman and Italian ally cavalry	Reg Cv (O)	8	1-3	1-4	2-5	2-6
Roman legions and Latin alae comprised 1/4 each of:
• Leves	Reg Ps (I)	1	14-40	18-50	21-60	28-80
• Hastati	Reg Bd (O)	7
• Principes	Reg Sp (O)	5
• Triarii	Reg Sp (S)	7
Non-Latin Italian infantry	Reg Ax (I)	3	0-5	0-6	0-8	0-10
Rorarii	Reg Ps (I)	1	0-6	0-8	0-9	0-12
Accensi	Reg Sp (I)	4	0-3	0-4	0-5	0-6
Italian Greek allies [Ps (I)]	Reg Gal (O)	3	0-1	0-1	0-1	0-1
Anti-elephant wagons	Reg WWg (X)	7	0-3	0-4	0-5	0-6
Incendiary pigs and handlers	Reg Art (I)	4	0-2	0-2	0-2	0-3
Ditch and palisade for camp(s)	TF	1	0-9	0-11	0-14	0-18

Only in 340 BC

Désignation	Type	Coût	200 pts	250 pts	300 pts	400 pts
Samnite allies	List: Samnite (Bk 2)

This list covers Roman armies from the reforms of Camillus until the changes made probably in response to the invasion of Pyrrhos of Epeiros. The infantry now usually fought in three lines, the first of hastati armed with pila, sword and scutum and screened by skirmishing leves, the second of principes with long spear, sword and scutum, and the third of veteran triarii armed as the principes and sometimes supported by the enigmatic rorarii and accensi. Rorarii and accensi had officers and standards, so are classed as regular. Accensi by their name should be servants and were considered less reliable than the rorarii, but on the one occasion they are mentioned in battle were mistaken at a distance for triarii, so must have been armed as spearmen. The rorarii were youngsters and are now usually considered to have provided additional skirmishers. Incendiary pigs and special wagons were a desperate attempt to counter elephants used with little success against Pyrrhos. The wagons were armed with pivoting beams tipped with large blades, spikes or incendiary grapnels and were manned by archers and slingers. Incendiary pigs do not fit the Exp (O) or Ps (X) categories since they are distance weapons, though inaccurate and having a mainly psychological effect. They are instead treated as analogous to hand-launched rockets, except that they cannot affect a target across water. We assume that they are kept tethered by their nose ring until ignited. The usage was of course cruel and inhumane, but blame the Romans, not us.

Phil Barker et Richard Bodley Scott, Listes d'armées DBM – Livre 2, 2^e édition, novembre 1998