This list covers Roman armies from the reforms of Marius until those of Augustus, including those of Marius himself, Sulla, Pompey, Crassus and Julius Caesar. Legionaries were now uniformly armed with pilum and short sword and protected by mail shirt and oval scutum. Auxiliary infantry and cavalry had not yet been regularised, and were equipped and fought in their own native styles. Generals could fight mounted, or on foot at the head of legionaries or bodyguards. The option to use a Roman ally represents the temporary alliance of rival leaders in civil war, such as Cassius with Brutus, or Anthony with Octavian. Only one non-Roman allied contingent can be used, and then not with gladiators. Numidian allies can represent Juba's army, in which case no other elephants are allowed in the army. Moorish allies can represent Bogud's army. Cassius and Brutus cannot have elephants, Numidians nor Armenian allies. Galatian allies can include imitation legionaries. Spanish or German Ps (S) can give rear support to Cv of their own nation. Newly recruited raw legionaries were usually kept back in reserve or to defend the camp. Rhaetian foot are graded as (S) because they are associated with a reputedly heavy throwing spear called a gaesum. Warships' fighting crews were overwhelmingly of legionaries. Bd (I) cannot provide rear support for Bd (O). This was an army much given to digging.
